

Spring 2023

We will be vending at the Farmers' Market on the Square this season starting on April 15, 2023 and continuing on the following Saturdays, weather permitting.

Our current focus is on native Wisconsin and pollinator plants; those that are well adapted to our variable climate. This year we will have 422 varieties to start the season with; prairie, woodland and wetland species are included.

On the farm, Derek and David are propagating and learning about some of the food forest plants that we hope to revegetate our overgrown woodlots with: Hazelnuts, Black, Red, and Golden currants; Apples, Pears, Honeyberries, Grapes and Elderberries as well as a dozen others are in house and being evaluated. As our experience grows, we hope to be able to provide these to other interested folks.

David read and digested Doug Tallamy's book, The Nature of Oaks, and growing oaks became an obvious way to make the world a better place. As a consequence, we now have 600+ seedling Bur Oaks, Quercus macrocarpa, that will be looking for new homes this coming season. A seedling oak will surpass a balled and burlaped, 3" caliper, $300, nursery grown oak within 10 years, at a much lower cost.

To help maintain the nursery grounds we have added domestic geese and ducks to the grounds crew. So far this experiment has been a success, keeping the weeds and the insect pests at a manageable level. No herbicides or pesticides have been used for the past 2 years. The gravel driveways and parking areas have been seeded to clover; the greens being enjoyed by the birds and the flowers by the bees. There should be a minor avalanche of duck eggs this spring and summer which will be another product we will offer at the market. Duck eggs make an exceptional bakery ingredient, as well as being delicious soft-boiled, as we can well attest.

Last season's honey harvest was the best we have had in years and we will have plenty to share at the market this year. This is local, unfiltered, unheated honey retains all the goodness nature intended. The pollen grains that are resident in this natural product can help with seasonal allergies – the small amounts of pollen ingested add a gradual immunity to these allergens.

This seems to be almost enough to keep us occupied. However, playing and making music is another obsession we both enjoy. The first weekend of June, we will be at the Ukulele World Congress in Nashville.....Indiana. The weekend of August 4, will find us at The Sugar Maple music festival.

Head'em up, plant'em out,

Derek and David

Use the following key to understand the “Use key” column in the following table.

- A = continental American wildflower
- B = butterfly and bee attracter
- C = keeps well as cut flowers
- D = drought tolerant
- E = flower can be preserved as an everlasting (dried flower)
- F = pleasant fragrance
- G = ground-covering propensities
- H = hummingbird attracter
- J = tolerant of juglan’s toxins (walnut species poisoning)
- K = deer resistant
- N = native Wisconsin plants other than prairie plants
- O = rabbit resistant
- P = native Wisconsin prairie plant
- R = rock garden suitable
- S = salt resistant
- T = true water plants capable of submergence and/or growing in wet, water-logged soils
- V = vines, can either be climbing, fence covers, or trailers
- W = wet tolerant, growing extra well in moist soils; preferable with good drainage
- X = requiring the extra drainage afforded by sandy or gravelly soils

We use the following abbreviates as well:

Dbl. = double; Flw. = flowers; Lvs. = leaves; Var. = variegated; Grn. = green
